

EXECUTIVE DECISIONS

An Executive Decision

The CEO was quite amorous
His PA was really glamorous,
When he asked her to dine
With candles and wine,
She said, "You are just preposterous,

You make decisions day after day,
But this time it has to be my say,
Yes, the week after next,
That will be the best
For that is when my husband's away!"

Executive Decisions

Now Executive Decisions are what
Dictators are likely to make a lot,
For they will issue a decree
To be obeyed by all and sundry.

Should a CEO relate to his Board
Of decisions made without their accord,
Then Directors may perhaps take the view
That the time is now ripe for someone new.

A sure way to cause a domestic strife
Is for the husband to say to his wife:
"It's my executive decision, dear,
I have stopped Amazon Prime - is that clear."

US Presidents can alone decide,
No need for them with Congress to collide,
And who is now a President mugwump?
It can be none other than Donald Trump.

Peter Smith

